Addressing Environmental Issues

IEST 5003 | 6 Units of Credit

Overview

This course illustrates the nature of, and need for, multi- or trans-disciplinary approaches for addressing environmental problems of national and/or global importance. Students’ independent research, field study, and the completion of an individual research project will draw on current or recent key environmental issues and will be supported by lectures, seminars, and on-line tuition and resources. The key theme of the course is the need to adopt integrative and multi-disciplinary approaches to environmental management. Some of the topics you will cover are: environmental governance, international environmental regimes/conventions; framing and defining environmental issues; public participation and stakeholder engagement in decision making; integrated and forward looking analysis; planning for sustainable development; science, risk and knowledge; complex systems and adaptive management; sustainable natural resource management; environmental impacts of production and consumption.
