Overview

Through the study of selected canonical buildings in their conceptual exploration, architectural thematisation, spatial figuration, and the logic of material & structural expression, this studio centres around how architectural space is configured and refined for use. Site condition and material limits are introduced to the design process. The architectural relations between interior and exterior are established according to the use, circulation and room types; the development of the project within constraints and possibilities of construction techniques; and the site conditions. The design will be aided through basic digital fabrication.
