Exercise Physiology
HESC2501 | 6 Units of Credit

Overview

In this course you will develop detailed understanding and practical application of the physiological adaptations of the respiratory, cardiovascular, endocrine and musculoskeletal systems to acute and chronic exercise. Specific adaptations to the different components of exercise (intensity, duration, type) will be explored. Practical skills and techniques used to monitor and analyse those adaptations will be developed throughout this course e.g. submaximal and maximal exercise tests, ECG, spirometry.

This course is restricted to students enrolled in the Bachelor of Exercise Physiology 3871.
